Oversleeping

So Jake spread his arms, leaped skyward from the sidewalk, and began to fly, rocketing up over the neighborhood. Suddenly he heard the distant voice of his father calling, as if from another universe, and Jake pried open his sleep-heavy eyes...

"Get up, pal.", said Jake's father, "or you'll miss the school bus."

"Just let me sleep a little longer," Jake mumbled. Then he groaned and turned over, pulling the covers up over his head like a tent, as if to somehow recapture his dream. Jake loves to sleep. It wasn't that he was lazy or lacked energy. Jake was a normal fourteen-year-old kid in every way. But he loved to curl up under a soft white cloud of sheets, rest his head on a marshmallow pillow, and luxuriate in the twilight world of slumber where life is exciting and dreams always come true.

So Jake was sitting at a table at Chez Maurice's in Hollywood, having lunch with his buddy, Tom Cruise. Tom was offering Jake a role in his next movie when...

"Get up," said Jake's father, gently shaking his son's shoulders. Jake yawned and hauled his legs over the side of the mattress, where he sat for a few moments to reconcile himself with the shocking reality of upright existence. He dragged himself into the shower, where he briefly dreamed of tropical rain forests, and at last shuffled downstairs to breakfast.

"Jake's going to sleep his life away!" teased Taylor, his nine-year-old sister, as she sat at the table, kicking her dangling legs excitedly as if to show by comparison how wide awake she was.

"He's just a growing boy," said Jake's father, washing dishes at the kitchen sink. "Right?" Jake nodded sleepily and finished his breakfast. He trudged out the front door with Taylor, still half sleepwalking, and they waited on the curb for their school bus, as usual.

At school, finally fully awake, Jake cycled through the pleasant routine of another typical day. He greeted his buddy Benjamin at the locker they shared. They discussed hockey games and books. Then there was science with Mr. Albert, math with Ms. Freed, and lunch with Benjamin, who always told great jokes. After school, there was homework, dinner with his dad and Taylor, maybe a little TV, and then off to dreamland. And so went week after week and month after month.

So Jake swung the bat, sending the ball out of Dodger Stadium and into the Baseball Hall of Fame...

"Come on, get up," giggled Taylor, holding a ringing alarm clock only inches from her brother's face.

"You'll be late for school!" Jake shook his head in disbelief and ducked under the covers.

Moments later Jake awakened in an empty, quiet room. He noted with puzzlement that all the buttons on his pajama top had popped off in the night. Then he pulled himself from the bed and padded sleepily to the shower. The bathroom mirror reflected a face that was oddly unfamiliar—one with heavier eyebrows and new creases on its brow. Jake rubbed a hand over his face and felt the unexpected sandpaper abrasion of whiskers. Mystified and dazed, he staggered downstairs to the kitchen, where he was shocked to discover a teenaged Taylor sitting at the breakfast table beside his father, who was grayer and heavier.

"So you finally woke up," commented Jake's father, casually sipping his coffee. "We thought you'd sleep forever."

"You certainly overslept!" added Taylor in a surprisingly mature voice.

Jake shook his head as if to disperse the fog of dreams. "What are you talking about?"

"You've been asleep for four years," Jake's father replied calmly. "Better get dressed, or you'll be late for your last day of school." This statement set Jake's mind reeling. His last day of school? Had he really slept so long? Was he now eighteen years old?

Lost in a whirl of confusion, Jake went to his room to dress for school and discovered that none of his clothes fit him. He borrowed a shirt, pants, and shoes from his father—and they made him look and feel even older.

Taylor led zombie-like Jake out the front door to the curb. Boarding his bus, Jake stared in bewilderment at the aged faces of his friends. "Hey, it's Jake!" shouted someone from the back of the bus. "He's back!" One by one, his schoolmates began to recognize him.

"Buddy, you sure look older!" said someone sitting near where Jake stood. Jake looked down to discover his friend Benjamin smiling heartily and looking startlingly like his older brother. Jake sat beside Benjamin, who eagerly told what had happened during Jake's years of slumber—how Mr. Albert had retired from teaching science, and how Ms. Freed had married. Benjamin spoke excitedly of hockey games won and lost; of books read and remembered; of school plays, classes, pep rallies, and car washes. They were small, ordinary events, but to Jake, they seemed extraordinary because they had happened without him. He had missed grades nine through twelve. And now there would be no more school days with Benjamin, his teachers, or his other friends. Jake had slept them all away.

"Come on, buddy, get up," called Jake's father. Jake pried open leaden eyelids to see his father standing at the foot of his bed, looking younger and leaner. Beside him was a nine-year-old Taylor, seemingly more girlish and bubbly than ever before.

"Come on, sleepyhead!" she giggled. Her laughter seemed as bright as the yellow sunshine splashing about the room. "You don't want to miss school, do you?"

Jake beamed and looked at his family. "No, I wouldn't want to do that," he said as he threw back the covers and leaped out of bed.

Tools of Persuasion

Persuasion is the art of convincing someone to agree with your point of view. According to the ancient Greek philosopher Aristotle, there are three basic tools of persuasion: ethos, pathos, and logos.

Ethos is a speaker's way of convincing the audience that she is a credible source. An audience will consider a speaker credible if she seems trustworthy, reliable, and sincere. This can be done in many ways. For example, a speaker can develop ethos by explaining how much experience or education she has in the field. After all, you would be more likely to listen to advice about how to take care of your teeth from a dentist than a firefighter. A speaker can also create ethos by convincing the audience that she is a good person who has their best interests at heart. If an audience cannot trust you, you will not be able to persuade them.

Logos is the use of facts, information, statistics, or other evidence to make your argument more convincing. An audience will be more likely to believe you if you have data to back up your claims. For example, a commercial for a soap might tell you that laboratory tests have shown that their soap kills all 7,000,000 of the bacteria living on your hands right now. This piece of information might make you more likely to buy their brand of soap. Presenting this evidence is much more convincing than simply saying "our soap is the best!" The use of logos can also increase a speaker's ethos; the more facts a speaker includes in his argument, the more likely you are to think that he is educated and trustworthy.

Although ethos, pathos, and logos all have their strengths, they are often most effective when they are used together. Indeed, most speakers use a combination of ethos, pathos, and logos to persuade their audiences. The next time you listen to a speech, watch a commercial, or listen to a friend try to convince you to lend him some money, be on the lookout for these ancient Greek tools of persuasion.

76. Tina is trying to convince her father to buy her a dress worth $150. She says: "Dad, the clothes I have are really old and ugly. If I don't get this new dress, all of my friends are going to laugh at me. I will be so embarrassed that I will want to die." What form of persuasion is Tina using?
- a. pathos
  - b. ethos
  - c. blackmail
  - d. logos
  - e. a combination of ethos, pathos, and logos
77. According to the passage, logos can build ethos because:
- a. A speaker can use misleading or false information to make his argument seem more convincing.
  - b. A speaker who overuses pathos might make an audience too emotional.
  - c. Audiences who are too frightened or too sad are unlikely to be persuaded.
  - d. An audience is more easily convinced by facts and information than simple appeals to emotions like pity.
  - e. An audience is more likely to trust a speaker who uses evidence to support his argument.

78. According to the author, what is the speaker's way of convincing the audience that he/she is a credible source?
- pathos
  - combination to ethos and logos
  - ethos
  - combination of logos and pathos
  - logos
79. Jared is running for mayor. He tells his audience: "Under our current mayor, there have been 15,000 new cases of unemployment. If he stays in office, who knows how many more people will lose their jobs? The number could go up even higher. When I was the CEO of Magnatech, I helped to create over 1,000 new jobs. I can do the same thing for this city if you vote for me." Which form of persuasion is Jared using here?
- pathos
  - ethos
  - logos
  - pathos and ethos only
  - pathos, ethos, and logos altogether
80. If you are presenting statistics, facts, and evidence, the type of persuasion you are using is:
- ethos and logos
  - pathos only
  - logos and pathos
  - logos only
  - pathos and ethos

Kevlar

Did you know that there is a fiber that is as flexible and lightweight as nylon yet five times stronger than steel? Did you know that this fabric is resistant to temperatures higher than 500 degrees Fahrenheit? Did you know that a woman invented this fiber? This miraculous fabric is called Kevlar and it is used to make everything from body armor to musical instruments.

The year was 1964. There were gasoline shortages due to conflict in the Middle East. A Polish-American chemist named Stephanie Louise Kwolek was working for DuPont, an American chemical company. She and her group were trying to make a lightweight, yet durable fiber to be used in tires. Lighter tires would allow vehicles to get better gas mileage, but the tires had to be strong enough to resist the wear and tear of the road. They had been working on the problem for some time and had little success until Kwolek had a breakthrough.

Kwolek and her group were synthesizing or creating fibers to test. During one of the steps in the process, Kwolek created a milky white solution by mixing two chemicals that were often used in the process. This solution was usually thrown away, but Kwolek convinced one of the technicians to help her test it. They were amazed to discover that the fabric that Kwolek had created was not only more durable than nylon, but was more durable than steel. Kwolek had invented Kevlar.

Kevlar is a remarkable fabric known for its strength and durability. Since its invention, it has found its way into a wide variety of products. Kevlar is used in sporting equipment like bike tires, bowstrings, and tennis racquets. It is used in musical instruments like drum heads, reeds, and speaker cones. And it is used in protective gear like motorcycle safety jackets, gloves, and shoes. However, Kevlar is best known for its ability to stop bullets.

Richard Armellino created the first Kevlar bulletproof vest in 1975. It contained 15 layers of Kevlar, which could stop handgun and shotgun bullets. The vest also had a steel plate over the heart, which made the vest strong enough to stop rifle rounds. Vests like Armellino's were quickly picked up by police forces and it is estimated that by 1990, half of all police officers in America wore bulletproof vests daily. By 2006 there were over 2,000 documented police vest "saves," or instances where officers were protected from deadly wounds by wearing bulletproof vests.

Kevlar is an amazing fabric not only for its hardness and durability but also for its heat resistance. Because of this, it has been used to replace asbestos. Asbestos is a naturally occurring material that is known for its ability to resist fire. Asbestos can resist temperatures over 1000 degrees Fahrenheit. For this reason, it was used in roofs, electrical cables, and brake pads, until people discovered that it causes cancer and other serious health problems. Kevlar poses no such risks. It is lightweight, flexible, and resistant to fire. Therefore, it has proven to be a good replacement for asbestos in many cases.

Since its invention in 1964, Kevlar has won its way into our lives. From musical instruments and brake pads to protective equipment and sporting gear, Kevlar is everywhere. Every day of your life you are exposed to something that was made better by Kevlar. Who'd have known?
